INTRODUCTION

The Robert Martin McBride Papers (1871-1983) is centered around Robert Martin McBride (1918-1986), genealogist historian and editor of the Tennessee Historical Quarterly, 1966-1980. The Robert Martin McBride Papers are a gift through the agency of Mr. James Hoobler, Tennessee Historical Society.

The materials in this collection measure 7.56 linear feet. There are no restrictions on the materials.

Single photocopies of unpublished writings in the Robert Martin McBride Papers may be made for purposes of scholarly research.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Robert Martin McBride Papers, containing approximately 5400 items, cover the period 1871-1983, although the bulk of the papers are limited to 1941-1965. The collection is composed of applications, cards, certificates, Civil War clipping, correspondence, court records, genealogical data, military records, obituaries, photographs, school records, special categories, speeches, writings, and several miscellaneous items.

One-half of the collection is composed of genealogical data collected by Robert Martin McBride (1918-1985) through years of tracing his own family ancestors as well as later being employed as a professional genealogist. Genealogical data may be found for the following Tennessee families; Allen (Allin), Alley, Altizer, Apperson, Armistead, Barnard, Bayliss, Beasley, Bigham, Boydston, Boze, Brashear, Brazelton, Brown, Burger, Carter, Chambless, Cheek, Christian, Church, Clary, Coffey, Conatzer, Cotton, Crawford, Crews, Crowell, Daniel, Davenport, Davis, Doss, Dowell, Dowless, Dowlin, Drewry, Driver, Duckworth, Eilers, Etter, Faulkner, Ford, Forrester, Foster, Frazier, Frierson, Gass, Gentry, Gibbs, Goodwin, Grant, Green, Griffin, Gross, Hairen, Haislip, Handley, Haney, Hannah, Harbour, Harris, Hartin, Hatchett, Hedden, Henderson, Holt, Hopper, Horton, Howell, Howerton, Hudgins, Hunter, Jackson, Johnston (Johnson), Keith, Killingsworth, Kirby, Knight, Land, Lawson, Leake, Lechleiter, Lee, Lewis, Liddell, Limbaugh, Loftis, Looney, Lorange, Macon, Marr, Martin, Mason, McBride, McCord, McKinley, Mills, Morgan, Morton, Murdock, Nation, Neal, Nichols, Oslin, Owen, Pack, Parrott, Payne, Pillow, Pippin, Porter, Reagor, Ridley, Riggs, Roberts, Robinson, Rose, Rowland, Sample, Scott, Sherrell, Siverteeth, Shook, Skidmore, Sloan, Smith, Smotherman, Soyars, Stem, Stinson, Stubblefield, Sudberry, Syler, Thompson, Toombs, Trigg, Turney, Vaden, Wade, Walker, Wells, White, Whitworth, Wilder, Williams, Wilson, Winfree, and Young.

The Civil War item is a copy of a journal kept by a Confederate prisoner while interned at Johnson Island, Ohio.

Correspondence generally concerns genealogical matters. There are several letters from politicians. Prominent political correspondents are Howard Baker, Jr., Bill Brock, Frank G. Clement, Joe L. Evins, Richard Fulton, Albert Gore, Sr. and Esters Kefauver,

During the Second World War Robert M. McBride served in the U.S. Navy as blimp pilot at Lakehurst, New Jersey and Moffet Field, California. Among the military records in his papers are his aviation flight log book, clippings, photographs, including those of blimps, a report describing the probable sinking of a German submarine on August 12, 1942, and a history of Blimp Squadron 32.

There are many photographs in the collection, most of which depict members of various families including Gross, Latham, Lewis, McBride, and Whitworth. Unfortunately there are several miscellaneous pictures which are unidentified.

Among the school records will be found Mr. McBride's thesis, "Portrait of an American" Loyalist; James Cotton of Anson County, North Carolina," submitted to the graduate school of Stanford University in partial fulfillments of the requirements for the degree of Master of Arts.

Special categories include a syllabus and lecture notes for an adult education class entitled "Classic Christian Literature" which Robert McBride apparently taught.

Through his long association with the Tennessee Historical Society and his wide interest and knowledge of Tennessee history, Mr. McBride was frequently asked to deliver speeches about some aspects of his native state. In addition to speeches on Tennessee, there are found texts of speeches on genealogical research and other subjects.

Like his speeches, the writings of Robert McBride are usually about some historical figures (David Crockett, Charles Dickinson, etc.) or sites in Tennessee. But there are exceptions to this pattern. There is an account of one of his blimp rides in World War II in which a German U-boat was apparently sunk (see box 18, folder 1). Another story is a humorous narrative of three cats, George-Cat, Alexandra, and Isabella, which is entitled "A Tale of Three Cats" (see box 18, folder 15).

Overall, the significant value of the collection resides in the large quantity of genealogical data, plus information on the activities of a blimp squadron in the years 1941-1945.
